

Contents

Preface	xi
The Author	xvii
Part One: Understanding the Need for Artistry in Professional Education	1
1. Preparing Professionals for the Demands of Practice	3
2. Teaching Artistry Through Reflection-in-Action	22
Part Two: The Architectural Studio as Educational Model for Reflection-in-Action	41
3. The Design Process as Reflection-in-Action	44
4. Paradoxes and Predicaments in Learning to Design	80
5. The Dialogue Between Coach and Student	100
6. How the Teaching and Learning Processes Can Go Wrong	119
7. Using a Reflective Practicum to Develop Professional Skills	157
Part Three: How the Reflective Practicum Works: Examples and Experiments	173
8. A Master Class in Musical Performance	175

9.	Learning the Artistry of Psychoanalytic Practice	217
10.	A Reflective Practicum in Counseling and Consulting Skills	255
	Part Four: Implications for Improving Professional Education	303
11.	How a Reflective Practicum Can Bridge the Worlds of University and Practice	305
12.	An Experiment in Curriculum Reform	327
	References	345
	Index	349